Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 06 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers and limited brighter spells. Seasonally cool.

Today:
Seasonally cool to cold in northerly breezes. Rather cloudy with showers. Outbreaks wintry to quite low levels at first, also heavy at times, bringing the risk of hail and thunder, particularly through the afternoon across central and southern areas.

Tonight:
Showers frequent early evening, between limited late brighter spells. Showers dwindling to isolated across central, south, scattered in north overnight. Frost for many away from windward coasts. Light northwest breezes.

Friday:
Mainly dry from Central Belt southwards initially with best of sunshine before mid-morning. Northwest breezes pushing occasional showers over north, which bubble up elsewhere into afternoon, some heavy, potentially thundery.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Fair start to Saturday, then strengthening winds and periods of rain soon spreading from southwest, reaching all by days end. Thereafter showers or longer periods of rain, heavy at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.